DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(g)(1) during the course of an interference conducted under section 135 or section 291, another inventor involved therein establishes, to the extent permitted in section 104, that before such person's invention thereof the invention was made by such other inventor and not abandoned, suppressed, or concealed, or (2) before such person's invention thereof, the invention was made in this country by another inventor who had not abandoned, suppressed, or concealed it. In determining priority of invention under this subsection, there shall be considered not only the respective dates of conception and reduction to practice of the invention, but also the reasonable diligence of one who was first to conceive and last to reduce to practice, from a time prior to conception by the other.

2. Claims 1-10, 14-15, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Liao et al. (MICCAI 2001, LNCS 2208, pp. 392-400, 2001).

Liao et al. teaches of image registration (abstract) utilizing a number of modalities including x-ray (Figure 3). Liao et al. teaches of optical tracking for instrument and display tracking (page 398, ¶ 2). Figure 8 details (x,y,z) transform in which the optical tracking system is a 3D system which uses multiple angles. Also as shown in Figure 8, the tracking markers are disposed in a linear arrangement. Liao et al. teaches of representing the surgical instrument on the display due to occlusion that occurs during interventional surgery (abstract). Liao et al. teaches that the method overcomes parallax error (page 399, Section 4).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 3737

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 11-13, 16, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Liao et al. (MICCAI 2001, LNCS 2208, pp. 392-400, 2001) in view of Peters (Proceedings of SPIE Vol. 4319 (2001)).

Liao et al. teaches of image registration (abstract) utilizing a number of modalities including x-ray (Figure 3). Liao et al. teaches of optical tracking for instrument and display tracking (page 398, ¶ 2). Figure 8 details (x,y,z) transform in which the optical tracking system is a 3D system which uses multiple angles. Also as shown in Figure 8, the tracking markers are disposed in a linear arrangement. Liao et al. teaches of representing the surgical instrument on the display due to occlusion that occurs during interventional surgery (abstract). Liao et al. teaches that the method overcomes parallax error (page 399, Section 4). Liao teaches of image registration but does not teach of a surgical microscope or rotational angiography.

Peters teaches of image registration teaches of image registration (abstract) with respect to rotational angiography (page 7, ¶ 3) and overlaying the imaging on to a surgical microscope display (page 5, sections 3.3-3.4).

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains to combine the Liao et al. image registration technique with the Peters rotational angiography and surgical microscope in order to increase safety amongst interventional procedures in which views are occluded by surrounding tissue.
